

❖ NAFSA: Intercultural Communication in Practice

International educators (are expected to) provide intercultural guidance to students going abroad and incoming international students, as well as to other constituents on an increasingly diverse campus. How we navigate these intercultural experiences can impact cultural adjustment and inclusion. Move beyond intercultural theory to develop your own facilitative framework to support intercultural learning among students, scholars, faculty, and staff.

Objectives

- Use intercultural communication strategies to support cultural adjustment for incoming and outgoing students, faculty and staff.
- Diagnose needs, provide training, and measure growth using intercultural development models and instruments.
- Develop an intercultural learning framework to facilitate a responsive and inclusive community on campus.

Start Date: Tuesday, August 02, 2022

End Date: Thursday, August 04, 2022

Time: 2:00 PM - 5:00 PM Eastern Daylight Time

❖ THE-The Higher Education: RE-EMERGING, RE-DEFINING, RE-ENERGISING ANZ

The ANZ region finds itself emerging from what is undeniably its most turbulent few years in recent memory. The degradation of the physical environment and multiple lockdowns have given rise to a very different landscape now compared to just two years ago.

This event has been designed in consultation with the sector to identify the biggest challenges faced by higher education right now.

Join your colleagues from across the higher education sector and be a part of the first in-person meeting of this kind for university administrators since the pandemic.

THE Campus Live aims to:

- Shine a light on conversations that usually exist behind closed doors to discuss meaningful changes.
- Identify shared challenges and successes and establish new relationships and networks.
- Share impactful practices that can be replicated in your own institution.

This event has been designed in consultation with the sector to identify the biggest challenges faced by higher education right now, with these areas having been highlighted as pivotal to the advancement of the sector:

1. Equity, diversity and inclusion.
2. Innovating teaching and learning
3. Internationalization.
4. Operational sustainability.
5. The importance of transformation.
6. Working with industry.

❖ The 3rd round of the KANS Scientific Competition in 2022

The Mustafa(PBUH) Science and Technology Foundation (MSTF), a member of EURAS intends to hold the 3rd KANS Scientific Competition in 2022.

KANS organized a scientific competition among inventors, scholars, university students, and professors (under 45 years of age) throughout Islamic countries. This event aims at finding the best scientific solutions to spot and tackle the challenges of society. Due to this purpose, a novel formation is designed for the upcoming event, in which pavilions would be the core of the event.

The competition is held in 6 main subjects including;

- Energy, Water & Environment.
- Health & Med-tech.
- ICT & AI.
- Electronics, and Robotics.
- Agriculture and Food Industries.
- Mining and Mineral Industries.

According to the MSTF definition for competition, a "pavilion" is a national or international scientific institution that declares its local substantial challenges and invites scientists and innovators from all over the Islamic world to answer the challenges. In other words, pavilions are seekers and young scientists are solvers. Finally, the best solvers will be chosen and awarded by the jury committee. It is worth mentioning that there will be no cost for the pavilions to participate in this event.
